

Nevada Appeal: Letters to the Editor Feb. 12

Don't rush into tax-hiking downtown project

I strongly agree with Jim Smolenski's article of Feb. 4. The powers that be should move slowly on the Nugget downtown project. I see no reason why we, as taxpayers, should have to incur any tax increase to help this project along.

I also felt the same way about the V&T Railway project when we were subjected to a 1/8 percent sales tax increase without an option to vote on it.

Livermore got it right: Vote on Nugget project

I would like to commend Supervisor Pete Livermore for his recent commentary on the Carson Nugget project. I think it is time for budget restraint, especially considering the current economic conditions. I think an advisory ballot question is an excellent idea that would give both sides of this issue a voice. Let the voters decide.
